EXCLUSIVE!

Chanelle's hot dates!

The Big Brother honey kicks off our calendar special!

➔ NOW WE'RE not saying we're lazy, as such, but around this time of year, the chap who pulls our nice lady shoots together essentially puts a "Gone Fishing" sign up on his computer and works on his golf swing, as we get gleefully inundated with all our nice Nuts girls' calendar shoots. There's a huge feature boasting our favourites on page 38, but we're kicking off with the delightfully boobed Big Brother survivor Chanelle and her terrific box o' dates, eyeing up a space on your wall soon.

"Yes, my bum has stuck to the seat. Move on!"

Chanelle says: "These are my own shoes. I don't wear them in the bedroom. I don't want to injure anyone!"

Nuts NEWS

Arms up, and the self-removing top did its work!

Chanelle says: "The house we shot in was amazing! I wanted to hide in a wardrobe so I'd have squatters' rights!"

Turn the page for more Chanelle...

Chanelle says: "It's dangerous to chop wood with no top on. But, I do like to live on the edge!"

Chanelle says: "After all the housework, I need a bit of me time. So I had a quick dip and a casual perv in the glass!"

Chanelle says: "I often do the hoovering, topless in high heels, of course! I need to set up another business - topless hoovering!"

Chanelle says: "The whole feel was to do a kinky housewife thing. It's like a fantasy come to life!"

Nuts NEWS

Chanelle licked all the cakes before putting them on Tesco's shelves

Chanelle says:
"I do love to whack out a cake or two! But we bought those cakes. Mine would taste loads better!"

Assassin's Creed IV – first play!

It's pirate game Black Flag! Yarr!

➔ DUMPING THE American Revolution for the high seas, pirating and wenches, Assassin's Creed IV looks like a grog-swilling, cutlass-biting blast! Nuts hoisted a mains¹, or something, in Florence last week for a world-exclusive first play, controlling Edward Kenway – hooded assassin and pirate captain, fighting the Templars with flintlocks, cannons and cussing. It's out on PS3 and Xbox 360 on 1 November with next-gen to follow soon after. Here be our thoughts, me hearties!

WORDS: NICK COOPER

KILL FOR A LIVING/FUN!

The game plunks players in the scuffed boots of a pirate, Edward Kenway, but the core assassin play hasn't changed: sneak up, isolate your target, drag them into bushes and slit their throat.

Barry won another round of hide and seek "Struggle all you like – you're going to have this filling fitted!"

PIRATE! TRAPPER! SURVIVALIST!

A lot of the environments contain treasure and animals like this croc. Fortunately, you can wrestle them, kill them, skin them and eat them. You even yell, "Crikey!" while you're at it.

DAVY JONES' LOCKER

The game's naval battles are fun, but take some getting used to. We found the easiest way was to blast enemy ships with the rail gun [pictured] then swing on board like an angry monkey.

The booze cruise had got a bit lively

PIRATE KINGS!

During Edward's adventures, players will encounter iconic pirate captains like Blackbeard here. This guy sets his beard on fire to intimidate enemies. He's also a decent drinking buddy!

"OK, OK – we'll watch Glee another night!"

His lucky bottle of ketchup finally came a cropper

WEAPONS CACHE

Over the course of the game, Edward becomes a walking slaughterhouse due to weapons like his cutlass, axe and flintlock, a one-shot weapon that's great for killing dandies, like this berk.

MULTIPLAYER'S BACK!

Multitplayer returns with a bunch of new maps and new pirate avatars. You can fly solo or play in Wolfpack mode, which allows you to join up with mates and execute team attacks.

She had a zero tolerance policy on wolf whistles

Assassin's Creed facts!

- Assassin's Creed III was the third best-selling game in the UK last year, just behind Call Of Duty: Black Ops 2 and FIFA 13.
- The series has sold over 55 million copies worldwide to date.
- Eternally grumpy animal rights campaigners PETA have criticised this outing because it includes whaling, describing it as "disgraceful!"

Crocodile vs shark!

Finally, an answer to one of life's great questions!

➔ GOOD NEWS, everyone! We've got an answer to one of those questions that plagues us all. Namely: who's harder, a crocodile or a shark? Well, the results are in and it's definitely the croc, who eats sharks for breakfast. Literally. Lucky tourists were able to witness first-hand – and capture on camera – the sight of a massive saltwater croc making a meal of a large bull shark, in Australia's Kakadu National Park.

"The guide referred to both the shark and the crocodile as 'very big,'" said one eyewitness. We imagine the shark is now a not-quite-so-big croc poo.

Croc helped another shark across the river

SHARK ATTACK!

Bull shark facts!

- Bull sharks can thrive in fresh water and have been found up to 2,500 miles upriver from the coast in South America.
- During widespread flooding in Australia in 2011, bull sharks were witnessed swimming around flooded city streets.
- They're believed to be the most frequent attackers of humans, with many bull shark attacks mistakenly attributed to other species.
- Bull sharks are able to jump up river rapids, in the same way that salmon do.

Any minute now, the turtles would hatch

Henrying kicks off!

New York Red Bulls striker inspires internet thing!

➔ SO, A few weeks ago, after scoring one of those soft Major League Soccer goals against Houston Dynamo, Thierry Henry leant quietly on the post. Old age, perhaps, creeping up on him? Nope. After scoring again, vs Toronto FC, he did it twice! It's an Henry thing! And now an internet thing, too, after #Henrying caught fire. Here are the best we've unearthed so far...

A quick word with Simon Cowell and Harry Hill!

The unlikely duo on their X Factor musical!

➔ Hi Harry and Simon! What made you decide to make an X Factor musical?

Harry: A few years ago, I was watching the end of The X Factor – I think Eoghan Quigg had just got through to the semi-finals. TV Burp was finishing so I was in a celebratory mood – I'd had a few drinks. I had the idea to write a musical, so I phoned up [ITV Director of Television] Peter Fincham. I thought, I'll have to get to Simon somehow – he's not in the phone book. Peter said, "I'm in the bath!" I said, "I need to talk to Simon Cowell." He said, "I'll just hand you over." Simon came on the line and said, "Harry, why don't you and your wife join me on your yacht?" I said, "Well, you're not going to get me like that." Anyway, we went, and that child starts school tomorrow. I wouldn't mind but we hadn't even left Southampton – he conceives all his children in international waters for tax reasons. [To Simon] Do you actually drive that yacht, Simon? Do they let you drive it around?

Simon: No. They won't let me into the cockpit.

Harry: He was in the cockpit in another way that night!

How can you have a musical of a show that's already a musical?

Harry: You're right, some people do think, "What are you talking about? The X Factor: The Musical? How can it be a musical?" But it can be.

Simon: I thought that.

Harry: Did you?

Simon: I've been pitched musicals before but I've always said no because they've taken themselves so seriously. But I always thought you were funny. Then I was told, "Harry's going to come in and pitch you a musical." I thought, "God, no!"

Harry: I was a bit nervous at the first sing-through. Someone said, "Simon's coming today. If he doesn't like it, it's over." So I positioned myself where I couldn't see him.

Simon: I told my PA to find me a seat close to an exit. I said, "If the songs are crap, I'm out!" But I loved it. There's a singing dog that falls in love with me. There's a hunchback that does an Eminem-type song. I thought, "I'm in!"

Was anything off limits, like Dannii Minogue, high trousers or nappies?

Simon: Dannii who? Also, my trousers aren't that high any more. They used to be. I tried not to be too involved. I wanted Harry to feel he had a free rein to do what he'd like. When you're in the public eye, there are days you open up a newspaper and think, "Christ almighty!" I knew I was going to get a lot of stick, but it's done affectionately. I get it full on throughout the whole show. It totally takes the p'ss out of me.

Harry: He did ask, "Please could there be a part for Sinitta?" But you've got to draw the line somewhere.

Simon, Nigel Harman, aka bad boy Dennis Rickman from EastEnders, is playing you on stage. What advice do you have for him?

Simon: Just be a d'ck every night. It was always going to happen. They showed me a couple of people, but I'm very happy with the choice of actor.

You've said before that you hate musicals.

Harry: That's the thing we all agreed on – we all hated musicals!

Simon: I've sat in some musicals and walked out after ten minutes. But then there are others I've seen more than once. If I had to imagine what I wanted a musical to be like, it's this. It's fun, it's a p'ss-take, it's larger than life. There was a real buzz when Harry and I watched the complete run-through the first time. It looks enormous, the songs are great, and the ending's one of the most unusual endings I've ever seen in my life. I don't know what he's taking.

Will you be making fun of the X Factor sob stories?

Simon: We had a guy on Britain's Got Talent who ran to the front of the stage and said, "I've got cancer!" like it's fantastic news. That's the world we live in now. There are times where you just can't believe what's happening.

So, what next? How about One Direction: The Musical?

Simon: I don't think you could predict anything. We never predicted this, we didn't predict the 1D movie. I'm genuinely more excited about this opening night than anything I've done.

Do you miss Cheryl Cole on The X Factor?

Harry: Not really, no. Have you seen her new tattoo? I say to Cheryl Cole, wake up and smell the roses!

Finally, Harry, have you got any advice for Simon on becoming a dad?

Harry: Well, as you know, I used to be a doctor and Simon has actually asked me if I'd deliver his baby.

Simon: No, I haven't!

The best lyrics from I Can't Sing!

PLEASE, SIMON

"Please, Simon, I won't give up, I'll keep trying. Every single member of my family is dying. Please, Simon, this is a talent I've mastered. What gives you the right to sit there and judge me, you b'st'rd?"

I WANNA BE LIKE BONO

"I want to save the whale, that is my greatest wish. They're just like human beings, except they're blue and fish. I wanna be like maybe Chris Martin, but not a whinger. Perhaps Ed Sheeran, not as ginger."

I CAN'T SING

"Didn't think I could. Thought I made Geri Halliwell sound good. I want to be like George Michael with better parking. Like Robbie Williams, but not as barking."

"Simon has asked me if I'll deliver his baby!"

Man grows new nose on forehead!

➔ IT WAS a traffic accident that left this man – known only as “Xiaolian” – from Fuzhou, Fujian province, China, in need of a new hooter. An infection corroded the cartilage of his nose, requiring surgeons to grow a new one on the 22-year-old’s forehead, by placing a skin tissue expander under the skin and implanting cartilage taken from his ribs. His new schnozz will be ready in a week or so, to be transplanted in place of his poorly performing old one. Hopefully, we’ll get a blow-by-blow of the surgery.

HOOTER HEAD!

“Yeah, looks great. What about when it rains, though?”

“When Lucy Pinder sees us she won’t be able to resist...”

For the team’s sake, Wiggins and Froome agreed to get along

Dumb & Dumber To behind-the-scenes!

The silly sequel begins shooting!

➔ BRILLIANTLY, JEFF Daniels rushed from picking up an Emmy as planet-brained news anchor Will McAvoy in archly serious drama The Newsroom, to reprising his role as Harry Dunne – one of the universe’s two stupidest men in Dumb & Dumber To.

The movie’s being shot in Atlanta, to be released on the 20th anniversary of the original. “We’re doing things that make the toilet scene in the original seem lame!” Daniels promises. Strong words. We’ll find out if they hold water next year.

Awesome AeroSeven concept!

After 40 years of cooking up the same race car cuisine, Caterham serves up tech for tea!

- Caterham cars are based on a Lotus design from 1957, so when they talk about radical changes, that usually means heating, or doors made of something other than vinyl and poppers.
- But this time, the boys aren't crying wolf, launching the AeroSeven concept, and it's the first peek at what they promise to be an all-new road car out next year. It features such witchcraft as ABS and traction control. And it will hardly share any similar parts with the faithful '50s Lotus, but instead a newer recipe cooked up with its F1 racing arm and partners Renault.

● Because while the AeroSeven will go on sale next year, in 2016 a deal between Alpine (Renault's sports car department) and Caterham comes into play, where we'll see Renault Alpine-badged road-legal race weapons. Which will continue to carry Caterham's DNA of being stupidly light, stupidly fun and groomed for naughty power-to-weight ratios.

- The AeroSeven now uses Formula One aerodynamics to dictate its looks and create downforce, with the bodyside made from carbon-fibre. Your bum still sits over the back wheels, but the suspension's independent at the back and both ends feature F1-style inboard pushrods, with bespoke springs and dampers.

- Caterham have then thrown in all sorts of fun F1 stuff, like launch control and a Lewis Hamilton-spec steering wheel that will have buttons to adjust throttle maps (which defaults to "Race" mode) and a "Pit lane speed limiter".
- The right-hand pedal talks to a 2.0-litre Duratec Ford engine that revs to a ring-winning 8,500rpm and spits out 237bhp. The gearbox is currently a six-speed manual, transferring power to the rear wheels through soft, sticky Avon CR500 tyres. So the 62 sprint is served up in 4.0 seconds, with the max arriving at 150mph.

- It's not often we can say the words Caterham and radical in the same sentence, but after 40 years of drooling over the same two-seater Lotus drawings, they're taking their bare-bones game to another level. And it'll only cost £45k.

Skinny-dipping heaven leads to lacerated arm hell!

→ THERE ARE lots of activities we discourage at Nuts, like riding on the back of a motorcycle or anything to do with a bandsaw. Skinny-dipping with girls, though, is not on the list. However, for 22-year-old Henry Shropshire from Marlow, it left him with this gaping arm wound.

"I was at a mate's 22nd birthday party," he says. "All the girls had piled into the pool in their pants and the lads were naked. My mate James got out of the pool, so I rugby tackled him."

"But I fell onto a pint glass, which exploded into my forearm. I was carted off to A&E to get sewn up. The damage only required 20 stitches, but the doc told me that I'd missed major arteries and veins by millimetres."

Web-surfing worries!

The other day, the girl I've been seeing borrowed my iPad. Unfortunately, I hadn't cleared the history from the last time I'd enjoyed some "alone time", so I made a bit of a fuss about getting it back off her. But now she thinks I'm messaging other girls online! Should I come clean and tell her I've been looking at rude websites?

ANON via email

Simple answer: yes. Girls like honesty, and the switched-on ones get that this is just something guys do. Maybe even suggest watching a little something together one night. This could be the beginning of some epic sex! Or, if you're feeling really flash, buy a projector to spice things up. I'm thinking mirrors galore here, anonymous emailer.

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

She won't take the lead!

I feel like I'm always the one who instigates sex with my missus. It's not that she's anti-sex (at least, I don't think she is), but I always have to make the first move and I'd really love it for once if she would approach me first. Is there any way of subtly going about this?

ZACK Ipswich

Perhaps the issue here isn't that she doesn't have as high a sex drive as you but that she doesn't have a lot of experience or just isn't as confident as you. If this is the case, you need to teach her how to make the first move. Take her out and text her dares you both have to do before the night's over. Be playful about the whole thing and she'll come around eventually. If there's a part of you that does think she's "anti-sex", ask her what she likes - it'll get you both hot and reassure you at the same time.

Can I be an ace kisser?

I'm not much of a "ladykiller" and don't often pull girls. But when I do get off with someone, I get paranoid that I'm a bad kisser. Got any sure-fire tips for perfecting my lip smacking?

BRYAN Newport

Don't you worry, Bryan. I find it's less to do with your lips and more where your hands are. Girls love security and passion. Hold her close to your body from the hips. Run your hand up towards her neck and gently hold her jaw open. Bite her bottom lip delicately and start using your tongue from there.

"My therapist says I have a preoccupation with vengeance. We'll see about that!"

Seymour Mace:

"I saw a big sign that said: 'Bus tours, ten quid.' So I thought I'd give it a try. What a rip off. Ten quid to have a look round a bus!"

Tim Vine:

"Last night, me and my girlfriend watched three DVDs back-to-back. Luckily, I was the one facing the telly!"

Gary Delaney:

"I just heard on the news that gangs are now using dogs instead of knives. I tried this and my toast was very hairy!"

TERRIBLE TATTOOS

MENTAL MUSIC TATTOOS!
100% genuine
superfan skin
shockers!

AXL GROSS!

We're pretty sure this Guns N' Roses fan would have listened to Don't Cry after seeing this in the mirror.

TWISTED TUPAC!

It's Tupac... as a unicorn! This is what happens when tattooers eat cheese just before going to bed.

WACKO JACKO!

Gross. Disgusting. Totally inappropriate... oh, and this tattoo of MJ and Macaulay Culkin is pretty bad, too.

DRAKE

FOREHEAD FAIL!

Yikes! Here's someone whose obsession with Drake may just cost them a potential job at HSBC.

HANSON

HANSON HORROR!

"Yeah, I fancy those girls from Hanson so much, I've had this done... What do you mean they...? OMG!"

BACKSTREET TATTOO!
To be fair, we'd struggle to recognise Kevin from the Backstreet Boys in the flesh, never mind a tattoo.

BADLY DRAWN BOY!

"Justin Bieber" here manages to look like even more of a wally than he does at one of his shows.

TOM TIT!

The unfortunate-looking Radiohead warbler often gets stick for his looks, but this is something else!

AC/DC DISASTER!

Just when we thought Brian Johnson couldn't look any creepier in that school uniform...

DODGY DIONI!

"My heart will go on"? Yeah, right! More like "My art has gone wrong". Ba-dum-tish! ❌

Hi James! Your new film, Filth, is based on the book by Irvine

Welsh, whose book Trainspotting was turned into a successful film. On average, how often do people compare the two? Ha-ha! You fking had to, didn't you? Trainspotting? Is that some Lithuanian film that no one's ever seen?

Er, fair enough! Well, Filth's a legendary book about a bent cop. Had you read it before filming? No, I hadn't. Irvine and the director suggested I didn't read it, largely because they're very different. They're similar in terms of their tone, darkness, comedy and depravity, but they're very different in terms of the narrative. But since I've finished, it's become must-have bedtime reading. Ha!

You mentioned the darkness and depravity of it all. Did you have to leave any bits out for the big screen? There's a scene in the film where we're in an underpass and this student has just been killed. In the book, they get finished off with a high heel shoe to the head. If we'd left that in, it would have been very hard to sympathise with the character.

Is it true that even some of the stuff you filmed had to be cut out because it was a bit grotty? Yes. There's a scene where I have a sexual encounter with a border collie. It was fking hot, by the way. When people say, "Hey, is it awkward filming sex scenes?" I'm normally like this. [Shrugs] That one I actually enjoyed!

Nice! Your character goes more and more mental as the film goes on. How did you prepare for the role? I ate a lot of pies, I drank a lot of Guinness, and I drank a lot of whisky. I enjoy a fair old drink in a spike, like a binge, every now and again, but I don't do it every night. So I tried to drink every night, to the point of being really drunk, just so I'd wake up the next day and feel the way he'd feel. I'm not a method actor but it was quite nice to be able to go to work and go, "Bah, I fking hate everything. I hate myself, I hate my breakfast, I hate my shoes, I hate my pants, I hate everything..."

That must've led to a few colourful moments on set! There were tons. Can I remember any of them? Nope. It was probably the dog scene. Also, weirdly, I had to sexually harass this female character who happened to be played by my sister. She's called Joy McAvoy, and she's brilliant. The scene is very horrible and intense and all that, but because it was my sister, we were just p'ssing ourselves laughing the entire time. I basically ask her to suck my balls. At no time when we were seven years old, arguing about whose turn it was to play Super Mario Brothers on the NES, did I think I'd be acting with my sister in and asking her to get her tulips around my bulbs.

Does this "semi method acting" mean you were a bit of a nightmare even after you stopped filming? My sense of humour did become way more filthy, and it's already filthy. My wife did start to get a bit like, "This is getting a bit too much, mate." I went home very tired, because it took a lot of energy.

Weirdly, this character came a lot more naturally for me than a lot of parts I've played, probably because even though the film is so surreal, he's still someone I believed wholeheartedly in.

You're famously playing Macbeth – one of Shakespeare's maddest characters. What is it with you and the nutjobs? The whole year has been leading up to Macbeth, really. I started off playing a grumpy guy in Welcome To The Punch, then I played someone who's a bit mental, angry and violent in Trance, then I did Filth, which absolutely took it to a new level. Weirdly, I feel that my character in Filth and Macbeth are very similar. They've both been hugely traumatised and are tenuously holding onto reality, so those two parts have bled into the same thing for me.

Any chance of doing some more frothy romantic nonsense, just to keep our mums happy? I think so. I like romantic stuff and I haven't done much in a while. When I read a script, I don't think, "Is this film funny and touching or dark and less loving?" The important criteria is, is it good? If something romantic comes in that's interesting, why not?

Thanks, James. Finally, there's a scene in Filth where you photocopy your private parts. Be honest, have you ever done that in real life? No. I took a picture of it when I was 16, but that was it!

LUCY PINDER PRESENTS...

Sexiest Calendars Of 2014!

Lovely Lucy on the girls guaranteed to make every day delightful next year!

SEXIEST CALENDARS

"We wanted this calendar to look a bit exotic!"

Hello Lucy! Talk us through your 2014 calendar. We shot it in West London. We were lucky it was a lovely day, as we wanted it to look a bit exotic.

Normally, we'd expect to see you on a far-flung beach. Is this a calendar for the recession?
Ha-ha! No, it's because we shot it quite late this year.

Out of all the months you shot, which stands out as the sexiest?
Tough one! It's all pretty sexy. I love the month we shot with an inflatable swan!

How come you never do stuff like dress as a werewolf for October, or a rabbit for Easter?
Maybe next year I'll do a fancy dress calendar. Me and Father Christmas in a December shoot. How does that sound?

Or an Advent calendar, so you get boobs and chocolate?
Ha-ha! That's an excellent idea. Even better, you could have miniature pairs of boobs for every day of December.

Some say autumn's a frisky season as it's quite romantic.
Yeah, maybe in a Richard Curtis film, where it's always very colourful. In reality it's pretty miserable. I like the "brisk walk in the cold" thing.

Is it sexier than summer?
Winter's sexy because you can stay in more. It's like, "Well, what shall we do now?" And then you decide that the best thing to do is go back to bed!

Do you get a peek at any of the other Nuts girls' calendars before they go on sale?
I had a peek at Rhian's cover as she wanted some advice on it. Sugs is looking on fire!

Finally then, if you could do a calendar collaboration with any Nuts lady, who would it be?
I can't choose. What about a calendar of all the Nuts girls together? I'd buy that! ▶

BBC ONE/HD • 9pm

Promising new comedy drama following the lives of a group of Nottingham-based truckers. Each week sees one of them go through a life-changing journey, starting with Stephen Tompkinson as a larger-than-life character struggling to accept the end of his marriage. Don't worry – it's not as depressing as it sounds!

Tricked

ITV2/HD • 9pm

Now, here's an idea: take the current popularity of street magicians, mix it in with the hidden-camera format and you have this – a new series surprising members of the public by performing mad magic tricks on them. Such as the illusion of dropping a shipping container on someone's car. Yeah, they're bound to see the funny side.

Peakay Blinders

BBC TWO/HD • 9pm

It's all happening in post-First World War Birmingham. Thomas is faced with the task of dealing with an IRA chief who has descended on his patch bent on avenging the death of his cousin. Michael Shannon (Nelson Van Alden in Boardwalk Empire) is superb in this real-life crime thriller about the life and career of Richard

Kuklinski, part family man, part Mafia hitman, who froze his victims to disguise the time of their death. It's no Goodfellas but it's an entertaining account of one of the most fearsome mob killers of the '80s. Ray Liotta also stars. ★★★★★

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Stephanie

24 Bedfordshire

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"It was a very naughty place indeed. I'm not even sure if I can say it, as I think it might be illegal. It begins with the letter P – that's all I'm saying!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I love being a bit of a tease and giving lots of little kisses everywhere. I like starting on the person's neck and then working my way all the way down..."

3 What's your favourite position?

"There's a really, really sexy position called 'The Rocking Horse'. It involves you both sitting up and facing each other. It can be very intimate and a massive turn-on for both parties."

4 Is it better to give or to receive?

"That's a very tough question. Really, I think every girl would tell you that it's better to be good at both – that's what I think, anyway!"

5 What one thing would you like to try but haven't yet?

"I've always wanted to have a go at joining the Mile-High Club. I've already booked my holiday for next year, so I'm looking forward to ticking that one off the list."

6 Ever got it on with another girl?

"I kissed one of my girl mates once. We were very drunk on a coach back from a work night out in London and things got a little bit frisky. We ended up snogging in front of everyone!"

7 What's your favourite sexy outfit?

"My little black dress. Victoria Beckham always manages to pull it off and look fit. If you have nothing to wear, you can always rely on an LBD to make you feel sexy on a night out. Plus, I've always pulled in it!"

8 What's the rudest thing you've ever done?

"Whenever me and my fella go out clubbing, we always end up sneaking off somewhere to engage in some very naughty behaviour!"

PHOTOS: TOM SERGEANT

Nuts REAL GIRLS

9 Have you ever made a rude video?

"Not yet. Maybe one day, but only if I 100 per cent trust the bloke. It'll be for personal use only, if you know what I mean!"

10 What really turns you on?

"I'm a sucker for a good kisser. Kisses on the neck are a massive turn-on as they make me go all tingly!"

LADIES CONFESS!

Racy revelations from our female readers!

'I made his fantasy a reality!'

MY BOYFRIEND surprised me with a weekend away, so I bought a sexy outfit for the occasion. When we arrived in our hotel, I disappeared into the bathroom, leaving him waiting on the bed. I walked out in a maid's outfit and heels. My boyfriend was dumbfounded. Putting on some music, I gave him a slow lap dance. By this point he was hard, so I ripped his trousers down and climbed on top of him, pushing his erection deep inside me. This was his ultimate fantasy so he came in seconds – the first of many times that weekend!

Marla Brighton

'A naughty massage'

I WANTED to help my boyfriend relax after a stressful day at work so

I decided to give him a massage after a nice long bath. He was excited when he saw the oil, and even happier when I told him I was going to massage him using only my boobs. He asked if he could help me oil them up before I started the massage so I let him have a play before rubbing them all over his back. I then turned him over and then rubbed them down his body to his groin. Then I used my slippery hands to bring him to climax, all over my big oiled-up boobs.

Rachel Watford

'Reunion turned rude!'

AN OLD friend invited me over to her new flat for a girly night in and a bottle or two of wine. We'd always been up for experimenting when we were at uni and after the first bottle, we found all the memories flooding back. As we began recalling our naughtier antics, I felt myself getting wet, so I leaned in for a kiss. Her lips were so soft and we both knew we wanted more. She led me upstairs where I found sex dice, flavoured body pens and pleasure gel all laid out on the bed. She grinned sheepishly, as it was suddenly obvious she'd planned it all along. I felt her hands on my body and I became increasingly aroused as she slowly slipped her fingers inside me. As I was about to come, my friend's boyfriend walked through the door. He clearly couldn't believe his luck and it didn't take him long to join in!

'We had a sex party!'

I'M A 21-year-old student and I live in a house of six girls, plus one very lucky guy. Studying really hard all week can get us a bit frustrated – and not to mention horny. Last weekend, after finishing our exams, we decided to have an Ann Summers party in our lounge while our male housemate was out playing rugby. We soon lost track of time and he came back home. He couldn't believe his eyes when he walked in! There we all were, in our sexiest outfits, vibrators in hand, trying out all the lotions and massage oils on one other. We were all very drunk and horny, so began using the vibrators on each other. Funnily enough, our male housemate spent quite a bit of time locked in his room that night!

Prem Winner Revealed!

Jonathan Pearce weighs up the league contenders and cracks out his crystal ball!

➔ BLIMEY! THE Prem season's barely started and already it's got us squabbling about who'll win. Never in the league's history has it been so open, with six clubs in serious contention. So who should we put our pennies on? We asked Jonathan Pearce for his take on the teams who could lift the trophy!

THE VOICE OF FOOTY!

Jonathan has been part of the Match Of The Day commentary team since 2004.

STRENGTHS

"Steven Gerrard, at 33 years of age, is still driving Liverpool forward. He's a wonderful passer and striker of the ball, and always leads by example. In Luis Suarez, too, they have someone who's a huge nuisance to opposition teams. Again, watch him - his work rate is phenomenal. He never stops harrying defenders. Also, in Philippe Coutinho they've also got someone who can change games for them."

KEY MAN: "Gerrard is an inspiration."

THE GAFFER: "Brendan Rodgers is a fantastic manager. A great thinker, a real football man."

GERRARD

MIGNOLET

WEAKNESS

"Liverpool love to play out from the back and Simon Mignolet takes chances with the ball on the ground. Also their squad is a little thin, which may see them fall away in the league. If that happens, I wouldn't be surprised to see Suarez looking to move away."

JP'S VERDICT: SIXTH!

STRENGTHS

"Their big names. They have stars throughout the team. They have a brilliant array of attacking ability. David Silva is a fantastic player. Sergio Aguero is a wonderful striker, like Suarez, he works his socks off. I think Yaya Touré is a colossus."

KEY MAN: "Vincent Kompany. When he's not in the team, Man City look like a different side. What a leader!"

THE GAFFER: "Manuel Pellegrini plays his cards close to his chest. He's a good communicator and is a calm character. It won't be soap-opera City any more."

KOMPANY

TOURÉ

WEAKNESS

"Sometimes the bigger names struggle to get up for the smaller fixtures. At Stoke they were poor, they made mistakes at Cardiff, and the smaller fixtures will trip them up. I can see them doing better in the Champions League than the league because of it."

JP'S VERDICT: FIFTH!

STRENGTHS

"Robin van Persie and his goals were really the difference for Man United last season, and so it'll prove again this season - as long as he stays fit. His scoring record - 36 in 54 games so far - speaks for itself. Apart from that, the team's greatest strength is their resilience. They'll come back strongly once David Moyes settles in."

KEY MAN: "Wayne Rooney. He's put the summer transfer hullabaloo behind him and he's playing out of his skin."

THE GAFFER: "It'll take David Moyes time to impose himself on the team and the club."

ROONEY

MOYES

WEAKNESS

"The pressure on the manager is phenomenal. Every single glitch will be scrutinised and the pressure on Moyes will have a detrimental effect. They also lack an Özil type of player in the centre of midfield, who can provide a game-changing moment of brilliance."

JP'S VERDICT: FOURTH!

"I learnt this off Paolo Di Canio!"

STRENGTHS

"Spurs have a real winning mentality now. They used to settle for a draw but these days, they play to win. Sergio Paulinho is hugely important as a link man for them - watch him play, he covers so much ground. Eriksen has filled the gap left by Luka Modric. Jan Vertonghen is classy at the back. AVB bought well in the summer and there's strong competition now for places throughout. I think he's building a team that can realistically win the league in the next couple of years."

KEY MAN: "The goalkeeper Hugo Lloris is emerging as one of the best in the world, and why the team is so strong at the back."

THE GAFFER: "André Villas-Boas always has a plan B. He's decisive and knows what he's doing."

SOLDADO

LLORIS

WEAKNESS

"Part of me thinks they could win the title, but will they gel quick enough? They're clearly struggling to score from open play. Roberto Soldado is making runs but he's yet to make the expected impression. Once they learn to play with Soldado, he'll get bundles."

JP'S VERDICT: THIRD!

STRENGTHS

"Olivier Giroud is starting to look really dangerous but they've got goals right throughout the team, and a midfield as good as any. In Mesut Özil they have one of the best players in the world, and I expect him to really bring out the best in Jack Wilshere, who's a prodigious talent. In Theo Walcott they have a player who has the pace to take anyone apart, and then there's Aaron Ramsey, who's matured a lot and is really starting to live up to the early expectations."

KEY MAN: "Mesut Özil, he'll create goals for fun. Walcott's fitness is key too, without his pace down the flanks they'll struggle."

THE GAFFER: "Arsene Wenger is the greatest manager currently in the Premier League. I think he's fantastic."

GIBBS

WEAKNESS

"If everyone stays fit, they'll finish near the top, but the left-back position is a problem - if Kieran Gibbs gets injured, they're short of options. The centre-halves can be brittle under pressure too. Wojciech Szczesny is better than he was but he'll still cost them points."

JP'S VERDICT: SECOND!

STRENGTHS

"Chelsea's greatest strength is their manager, Jose Mourinho, but he's also blessed with one of the most talented midfields in world football - it's an embarrassment of riches. I mean, just look at it! Oscar, Juan Mata, Frank Lampard, Eden Hazard, Ramires, Willian... I'm not sure how he's actually going to find room for them all in the side. That said, they've never really found a replacement for Claude Makelele."

KEY MAN: "Oscar is a phenomenal player. He's busy, he wants the ball. He's outstanding. And Frank Lampard is still one of the major stars of the Premier League."

THE GAFFER: "Mourinho is simply one of the most talented managers the game has ever known."

OSCAR

WEAKNESS

"Mourinho has always built his teams on a solid defence, but age is catching up with his defenders, and David Luiz can't be relied upon. Petr Cech also isn't as commanding as he was, but I said at the start that I think they'll win it, and I'm sticking with that."

JP'S VERDICT: FIRST!

OVERALL VERDICT: "With Arsenal spending now, I can see them being in the thick of it along with Tottenham, Chelsea and the two Manchester clubs. Liverpool will be pushing on the door too, mainly because of the manager. I reckon there'll be no more than 10-12 points this season between the top six!"

New jobs for Di Canio!

Ideas for what the dotty fascist could do next!

➔ POOR LITTLE Paolo di Canio, hoofed out by Sunderland after a player revolt. Luckily for him, a man so naturally expressive can't expect to be out of work for too long. In fact, we've already found a load of potential new occupations for Potty Paolo as our selection of pictures prove...

"Paolo, I've told you before. Sod off!"

ORGAN MONKEY!

"OK, fellas, let's show those cats who's boss..."

DOG WALKER!

"Uh-oh! I think I just followed through!!"

WEIGHT LIFTER!

The new back four were masters of the offside trap

FRUITY DANCER!

"Lingerie? Third floor, madam"

BELLBOY!

GARAGE MC!

"This one goes out to John O'Sheal"

HOOLIGAN!

"C'mon, you slags, I'll take you all on etc..."

UNICYCLIST!

"I'll beat the M1 traffic, even if it kills me!"

"Quote me on that!"

This week's biggest match debaters!

"Man City didn't buy anyone. They bought five players and that's it" That doesn't add up, Paul Merson.

"Stephen Ward has a really good smell"
Inigo Calderon is on the sniff.

"It was the best and worst draw we could have got" It can't be both, Neil Lennon.

"There are only 11 players you can fit into the starting 11" You don't say, Michael Dawson.

"Ian Wright lived on the edge of my shoulder"
OK, Carlton Palmer.

"I will be selling my body to all of you if we don't finish tenth" Caterham team owner Tony Fernandes might regret that.

OO-ER SOUNDS A BIT RUDE CORNER!

"Wolfswinkel is a mouthful"
Careful where you put it, Phil Thompson.

"I'm excited about watching Ronaldo coming inside"
Joe Cole is filthy like that.

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

How Di Canio lost his team – and his job!

Paolo's management style cost him Black Cats job!

➔ IT'S AMAZING how quickly you can lose a team. Paolo Di Canio arrived at Sunderland in the way that Paolo does – loudly, and doing things that normal managers never would. For a short time, it worked, but from the start he was falling out with the players. Phil Bardsley was the first example. Phil's a nice lad who did some daft things. That's the time you have to put your arm around them and say, "Listen, lad, I've got to fine you, I need you to focus on your football, OK?"

Over the summer, Paolo brought in an amazing number of players and started laying down all manner of laws. You have to have a certain amount of discipline but you also have to manage egos. Paolo would never have accepted the laws he was laying down when he was a player. Things worsened when he started criticising individual players in public. You have to keep that stuff in-house.

Obviously, he had a bit of bad luck as well, but I think that the board's decision was based on his relationship, or lack of one, with the players. Maybe if he'd been given time, he'd have realised he couldn't manage his squad if players weren't on his side, but it's too late now!

"That new razor I'm using gives such a smooth finish"

"Keep blowing! We can get this thing away from us!"

Chelsea's best striking option is at Everton!

WHAT A player Romelu Lukaku is turning out to be. It's so strange that Jose Mourinho chose to loan him out again – it's as if he didn't see what he did last season.

Lukaku could have made such an impact in a Chelsea shirt. Last year, he terrorised defenders and it looks like he'll do the same at Everton.

Ray Wilkins has a theory that he has loaned him out to damage other teams, but I don't buy it – he could be doing that damage for Chelsea!

Özil could bring Prem title back to London!

DEPENDING ON your interpretation of what makes an assist, Mesut Özil racked up five or six in his first two games for Arsenal. What a player he is, and how the supporters' attitude to boss Arsene Wenger has changed!

I've said it before, the perceived "big three" clubs don't have the stability and continuity that Arsenal have. I think the Gunners, and maybe Tottenham too, will be looking at the way the season has started and thinking, "Hey, we have a real chance here!"

Chelsea, Man United and Man City all look like they have a few problems to work out, whereas the North London clubs look like they're settling very nicely.

"Look, for the last time – I'm not Tintin!"

Footy players' pants!

Soccerball superstars in their skidders!

➔ LAST WEEK, with Spurs 1-0 up in the Capital One Cup, Villa's Nicklas Helenius burst past Jan Vertonghen. Clean through on goal, he swung his boot... and missed. Jan, in the finest piece of defending we've seen in years, had saved the day by heroically yanking Nick's shorts down! Which made us think: we really should publish more funny pics of players in their Y-fronts. So we have!

TOTAL PANTS!

Bafflingly, Spurs' Jan Vertonghen wasn't even booked for this assault on Villa's Helenius!

BIT OF A STRETCH!

When it comes to pants, Charlton's Izael McLeod clearly favours a close fit brief. As this firm tackle proves.

DOWN TROU!

OK, we're no experts but Stoke's Jonathan Walters should surely have bought Steven Taylor dinner first?

BIG KEKS!

Stoke's Salif Diao is sporting one sturdy pair of undercrackers. To be fair, it looks like a very chilly day!

BUM'S THE WORD!

Maggies boss Alan Pardew clearly disapproves of Gutierrez' Ys. Either that or Jonas' testie has popped out.

GOLDENBALLS!

It's comforting to see a sex symbol like Becks looking like we do just before bed after a night on the lash!

POO ARE YA?

No shorts? Bog roll? A galloping trot? Juve's Vucinic may wear number 9 but a number 2 seems more likely!

Matt Jarvis: 'I take the Tube to work!'

The Hammer on life as a pin-up and bowling!

➔ Hi Matt! You were the club's record signing when you arrived – does that add to the pressure?
It's one of those things. People will always be telling you that you were a waste of money, you just try your best to block it out and make sure you keep performing – that's why you got your move and why they paid the money. Hopefully I'm doing that.

Are you worried that you might remain a one-cap man for England?
Yeah, once you get the one, you always want more. I've been working extremely hard, the same as last season, to put myself in a position where, if I'm playing well, I could get picked again. So hopefully, I won't stay stuck on one!

Have you ever had any stick over your cover shoot for the gay magazine Attitude?
Not stick, but a lot of banter in and around the changing room. But all of it was very positive, which was fantastic.

You're pretty speedy on the wing. What's your 100m time?
I did something like 12.6 when I was in school, but I always used to do the long-distance running. I look back now and think, "Why the hell did I do that?" Am I the quickest Hammer? I'd like to say yes. Modibo Maiga is pretty sharp, but I'd say I take that title.

You were a county champ in swimming as well – are you good at every sport you do?
Yes! I really just enjoyed doing all different kinds of sports when I was growing up and loved competing. That's why the swimming and the athletics were great, they weren't a team game, it was you on your own, it was the whole challenge of trying to win everything so, yeah, in summary, I'm one of those annoying people!

There must be something you're bit rubbish at?
Bowling. I don't know why. I'm just not good at it.

What are your top tips for maintaining a six-pack?
Obviously, a lot of it is working hard in the gym, but diet is the main thing for me. You have to mix lots of abs work with trying to not eat as much junk food or carbs.

Have you put any pressure on Kevin Nolan to change his goal celebration?
Ha-ha! That's always been his thing and everyone knows him for that and the crowd loves it, he'd never change it!

What would your trademark celebration be if you had one?
I did a sort of goggles one, like this [makes pretend glasses with his hands] which came about a couple of years ago when a few of my mates came up with it, messing around. I said to them I'd do it, if I scored. I did it the once but it didn't stick.

Rumour has it you like to catch the Tube. Is it true?
Ha! That's true! I got the train here actually! I don't drive in London, it's far too hectic, so I do Tube it everywhere. I don't mind it at all. And I've not been recognised once.

"Hey, who put this white box and text here?"

I've been quite understated, no disguises or anything but if I'm not sat there wearing the kit, there's no reason why anyone would recognise me.

Nice to chat, Matt! Finally, then, do you have any weird habits or hobbies?
No, although in my defence I'd say since being back down south I've been a little less boring. I've been able to do a lot more, going out to do stuff a little bit more, be a little more adventurous. Hobbies-wise I like food so, obviously, being near London there are all sorts of different restaurants you can try. But weird hobbies? I'm afraid not!
